GRAHAM IN 1851.

WallL OUR EDITORIAL FRIENDS oblige us by anonacing the following arrangements for 1851.

ORAHAM has completed the most extensive arrangements to give still higher character and value to his Magazine for the coming volume.

G.P. R. James, the celebrated Novellat, has been engaged to give a series of splendid romances.

GEORGE D PRENTICE, the Poet of the West, will write exclusively a poem for every number.

GRACE GREENWOOD is engaged to give a series of her beautiful stories.

GRACE GREENWOOD IS GERROO W. S. STANDER OF THE STANDERS OF SOUTH CAROLINA, WILL CONTRIBUTE A DRIVE STANDERS OF SOUTH CONTRIBUTE OF RUTHER OF SOUTH OF SOUTH and Lowell, Stoddard, Bayard Taylon, Field, and others.

T. B. Read, the Artist and Poet, is now at Dusseldorff on his way to fisly, to furnish from the Galleries a superb set of drawings. Artists from America have been sent to London and Faris, and a splendid set of lightly finished drawings by the renowned David, of Paris, are to be furnished for Graham's incomparable Ladies' Department, which will excel any thing that has ever been preduced in Paris, England or the United States. The first appears in the December number.

All this forestells a year of splendor in this Magazine for 18th—and as ever, Graham's readers will be astonished.—Graham also abolishes the system of canvarsing agents, and Constitutes every Fostimater and Editor Agents. Now is the time to form Glubs, as the December number closes the volume.

PRICE OF CLUBSFOR 1851 — All orders for Grabam's Magazine, commeacing with 1851, will be supplied at the following rates:—Slogie subscribers $3; Two Copias, $5; Five Copias, $10; and Ten Copies for $20, and an extra copy to the person sending the clab of ten subscribers:—These terms will not be departed from by any of the three dollar magazines.

The Wreck of the Isanc Mend. To the Editors of the Tribune :

I was lying awake in my state-room, when I heard the watch on deck giving order to the helms-

If you deem the following notice of the wreck of the bark Isaac Mead worthy of an insertion in your valuable paper, it is at your service.

man to steer to the windward of a vessel, which order seemed to be obeyed. In a moment after, the order was countermanded, as the vessel appeared to be crossing our track. Springing up, I commenced dressing, but just as I took my coat and vest up to put them on, the watch oried out that the vessel would be into us. At the same time he hail. ed her to steer away; but, before the sound of his voice had ceased, the vessel, which proved to be the steamer Southerner, struck us on our bowsprit, which, acting as a lever, pried the bow of the back wide open. I called out to learn whether there was any danger, and the first answer came that there was none; but some one immadiately oriod that she was sinking. By this time I was dressed, and running upon deck, where the passengers were fast assembling, several of us engaged for a moment in trying to launch a life-boat, which hung on the starboard side, but before she was unlashed the bow of the bark was deep under water, and hone of us were able to stand. The ladies were all terrified, screaming for help and merthe bow of the bark was deep under water, and none of us were able to stand. The ladies were all terrified, screaming for help and mercy; yet only one man seemed to lose command of himself. Those who could, immediately jumped overboard, and commenced swimming to get away from the vessel before she went down; but re one had time to sieze a plank or anything with which to sustain bimself. The vessel was so nearly perpendicular that I slid down to the mainment, where, eatching hold of a settee, I drew myself with all my might toward the stera in order to jump overboard. But I had scarcely time to catch hold of the rigging of the mizzenmant bafore she went down, and the cries for help were drowned in the rush of waters made by the bark's sinking. As we went down, I commenced drawing myself to rise to the surface, till after what seemed to me an age. I feithat I was no longer descending, since the rush of waters had cessed. Although I ascended rapidly, I was so long under water that I was in a nearly exhausted condition when I gained the surface. As soon as I had cleared my stomach and longs of water, I looked around to see where the Steamer was, which had flusted far to the southeast. About a hundred yards to the south-west. I observed several things affoat, towards which I east. About a hundred yards to the south-west, I observed several things after, towards which I started, and for the first afteen minutes had nothing to support myself with. I then found a board about three feet long and two wide, on which I rested for a moment, and took the first long breath.
During all this time, the cries of those who were trying to sustain themselves were most beart-rending, and loud above all the others was clearly distinguished that of a female. I tried to throw off my cost and boots, but finding it impossible, turned imprive each 1, 30 per cent of delivery of deeds at any simple of May 1, 1881, to antiporchaser; 50 per cent on morgas e for 5 years, at 5 per cent, sent annually I desired.

For the first time I felt desolate and disever. For the first time I felt desolate and dis-heartened, fearing leat the steamer was going to leave us and looked towards the land, but non-could be seen. Another man, soon after, went down near me, crying for help and mercy, and I began to think my leat hour was at hand. Suffice it to say, that after being in the water for more than three quarters of an near, he was rescued by the steamer's beats, yet, and to relate, only hims were left to tell the mounful tale, twenty-four having gone to thir final account. Of these, one was the child of the above mentioned lady, which the steward with praisa worthy bumanity, carried the steward with praiseworthy humanity, carried through the waves swimming with one hand, till no signs of life appearing, he left it. The steward was picked up in an exhausted state. The Captain was drawn under water by some one who seized him by the hand, and who came near drowning him. Almost immediately after this he was seized again by the breast, and in disengaging himself had to tear off his clothes. After recover ing himself, however, he swam away for the steamer, and finding a plank managed to save himsolf. The rest of the crew, and the remaining pas sengers, met with no particular incidents. All being roused from their sleep, no one had time to out of the cabin.

We were kindly treated on board the steamer, which brought us to New-York, and I take this opportunity to express the thanks of all who were saved to those who so nobly contributed to our wents, and whose kindness sinks deep into our wonts, and whose interest and copy hearts.

In the midst of all this gratitude, only one cause of unenainess acts as a drawback, and that is the long delay of the steamer's boats in coming to our rescue. Why we were forty minutes in the water is a question which I would not like to press for an answer. Three went down who struggled the cause they half an hour. Yet let a veil be thrown more than half an hour. Yet let a veil be thrown over the whole; all was so ordered by the will of Him who alike ruleth the armies of heaven and mies of heaven and W. H.
